Lorena/Gianine,

Following up on our conversation yesterday about the "Official Fleet Week Welcome" scheduled for Wednesday, August 30th from 5-9 PM, I'd like to look to incorporate the official unveiling of the Kent Yoshimura mural into the series of activities planned in Downtown San Pedro that evening. With 6th Street closed between Pacific Avenue and Harbor Boulevard, live entertainment planned in front of the marquee at the Warner Grand Theatre, along with food trucks and other activities, it seems like a 15-20 minute unveiling event would have a built-in and captive audience.

I've copied Tania Picasso who's managing the installation on behalf of the Cultural Affairs Department along with Amy Gebert and Ryan from CD15.

Can we tentatively incorporate the unveiling for 6 PM on August 30th? Please advise.

Thanks,
David

Good News!

The installation of Kent Yoshimura's mural "The Song She Sings" will commence this upcoming Monday, June 26th with the erection of a scaffold along the east wall of the Warner Grand Theatre. As a result, Lillyan Fierman Walkway will be closed to the public. It will remain closed until the installation is complete. Unless unforeseen conditions arise, we anticipate that the mural will be complete and Lillyan Fierman Walkway to be re-opened to the public during the week of August 21-25, 2017. A formal community unveiling will be held soon thereafter, perhaps leading into Fleet Week Activities for Downtown San Pedro. Additional details will be announced in August.

I've attached a calendar of project tasks and dates related to the installation, along with renderings of the "The Song She Sings."

Feel free to contact me with any questions.

All the Best,
David
